SAN JOSE STATE COLLEGE

VOL. 48 SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, JANUARY 9, 1961 NO. 57

Grad Deadline

Prospective graduate students at San Jose State desiring to take the required Graduate Record Aptitude test on February 7 must reserve their place by paying a fee in Adm263 by Friday, January 13.

Aeronautics Prof Talks On Problem Solving

"Human problem-solving," says Frank Williams, associate professor of aeronautics, is "of vast practical importance in the world today."

Professor Williams elaborates on this thesis at 12:30 p.m. today in E118 in an illustrated lecture, "The Optimization of Creative Problem-Solving."

The address is sponsored by the college lecture committee as part of the faculty lecture series for 1960-61.

NO COMPLACENCY

The professor says we cannot be complacent about problems in the world today. Two thirds of the world's people are starving, he says. Only 25 per cent of the globe's population enjoy materialistic benefits Americans do.

"If we in America are to continue to enjoy the standard of living we have established in the past, we cannot become too complacent about our current problems," asserts Professor Williams.

Despite a scientific background, the professor emphasizes that creative problem-solving is not just for the engineer and scientist.

"Creative thinking when confronting problems," he says, "is equally desirable in all sciences, the arts, business and industry and everyday life."

1947 GRADUATE

Professor Williams was graduated from the University of Colorado in 1947.

He spent two years as a geologist with Standard Oil, but gave it up to teach.

Professor Williams taught high school science and at Menlo junior college. He received an M.A. from Stanford university.

He assisted the air force with creative problem-solving during World War II, and authored a text book published last fall on the subject.

Prof Jack Holland Opens Discussion Series Tomorrow

Prof. Jack H. Holland, head of the Management department, will present the first in a series of three discussions involving problems of business and industrial job placement in Morris Dailey auditorium tomorrow at 12:30 p.m.

Professor Holland will discuss present opportunities, how to answer placement letters, how to arrange appointments, who to contact in various organizations, and tests available to the student who is undecided about his particular interest area.

Future discussions will be directed by Dr. Edward P. Shaw, head of the Industrial Relations department, and by Dr. Edward W. Clements, college placement officer.

Class Candidates Will Speak Today

Two minute speeches by candidates running for class offices are slated today when the junior class meets at 3:30 p.m. in S142.

Other items scheduled include appointment of a committee to name the outstanding member of the junior class, according to Rod Diridon, president.

La Torre Photos

Tomorrow and Wednesday are the last days for seniors to have pictures taken for La Torre, according to Darla Grainger, editor.

Appointments can be made by seniors in the Student Affairs business office, TH16.

A deposit of 50 cents is required for making the appointment; an additional fee of $1 is due at the sitting.

Associated Women's Lounge in the College Union, 315 S. Ninth St., will be the setting for the photos, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Restrictions On Pre-Reg Announced

Pre-registration restrictions will be tightened in the spring semester, Registrar John C. Montgomery announced yesterday.

Only students who work for the college without pay during regular registration, and the "few isolated cases involving a health problem or a disability" will be allowed to pre-register, Mr. Montgomery said.

He expects no more than 300 students to register early in the spring. In the fall semester, 1292 were given "pre-reg" privileges.

In a bulletin, the Registrar said "pre-registration has grown to the point where it is impossible to be objective and fair in granting this privilege."

The bulletin said that since seniors and graduate students register first anyway, there is no need for them to pre-register.

Concerning athletes, Mr. Montgomery reported one critic asking "why students wanting to take English literature did not have the same privilege as those who play football."

"If we grant special favors to those wanting to participate in sports, we must grant the same rights to those who desire a particular class," he said.

Gavel & Rostrum Adviser Quits; Charges Bias in Speaker Selection

By PETE SHAW

Dr. Herbert Craig, assistant professor of speech, announced Friday that he resigned as adviser of Gavel and Rostrum on Dec. 13, 1960, because he felt he had no other alternative.

In a release to the Spartan Daily, Craig said: "I have consistently striven to encourage Gavel and Rostrum to entertain views and procedures that promote the free exchange of ideas. These efforts of mine have been represented as efforts to restrict the free exchange of ideas. I searched for some action that would indicate more conclusively my dedication to the purposes of Gavel and Rostrum (to provide a forum for the free exchange of ideas and to promote participation in public speaking activities). My resignation seemed to be the only alternative left."

According to the official constitution of Gavel and Rostrum, which was approved by the student council on Dec. 17, 1958, the purpose of the organization is to promote an atmosphere for the free exchange of ideas and to promote participation in public speaking activities.

"I accepted the role of faculty adviser to Gavel and Rostrum at its conception because I interpreted the 'free exchange of ideas' clause of the preamble to mean a commitment to constitutional government," Craig said. "I take a commitment to constitutional government to mean a commitment to problem solving through deliberation which reflects all relevant facets of an issue," he added.

The primary events leading up to his resignation occurred this semester, Craig noted.

'FREE EXCHANGE'

"Gavel and Rostrum carried out the purpose of free exchange when it conducted the early-semester talk by Karl Prussian," Craig said.

He also added that the second Gavel and Rostrum presentation, a speech by Frank Kearsall on the Kennedy-Nixon candidacies, also carried forward the purposes of the organization.

"It was at this stage," Craig said, "that I encouraged Gavel and Rostrum president John Gustafson and other club officers to entertain speakers whose views differed from those of Prussian and Kearsall."

The remaining two Gavel and Rostrum-sponsored speakers this semester were Garvin Hale and William Schmidt, whose views, Craig interpreted, were similar to those of Prussian.

PROCEDURE VIOLATED

Craig also noted that, contrary to the customary procedure of club officials informing the faculty adviser of upcoming activities, he had not been consulted prior to the addresses by Hale or Schmidt.

"Neither I nor the administration were aware of the meetings," Craig said.

"Therefore," Craig noted, "I didn't have the opportunity to sign the college-required meeting approval card for either speaker."

Gustafson, asked by Craig why he had not been informed of Hale's upcoming talk, reportedly said the talk was arranged on extremely short notice.

"Efforts on my part to encourage a free exchange of ideas have been represented as an attempt to deny the forum to gentlemen who applaud the work of the house committee on un-American activities, and as an effort to deny the blessings of liberty to these advocates," Craig said.

NO ADVISER

Because of Craig's resignation, Gavel and Rostrum is presently without an adviser, and therefore now holds no official status with San Jose State College under associated student constitution rules.

Gustafson has reportedly asked Edward Carmick, associate professor of engineering, to be the club's new adviser.

Carmick indicated to the Spartan Daily that if SJS president John T. Wahlgren chose to appoint him Gavel and Rostrum adviser, he would probably accept the post.

Carmick told the Daily he felt that Gavel and Rostrum was probably the only "rightist" (conservative) faction on the SJS campus.

He added he didn't care to see a "leftist" vacuum created, as would occur, he said, if the current activities of Gavel and Rostrum were curtailed.

Perception Theory To Be Discussed

"A Critical Exposition of Chisholm's Theory of Perception" is the title of a paper to be read tomorrow night by Dr. Frederick C. Dommeier, Philosophy department head.

The reading will constitute the fourth monthly Robinson Seminar of the fall semester and will be held in CH162 at 8 p.m., Dr. Murray J. Kitley, assistant professor of philosophy, announced.

The meeting is open to the public.

Cole Receives NSF Honor

Frank W. Cole, assistant professor of physical science, has been appointed as a science faculty fellow of the National Science Foundation for a period of tenure beginning with the academic year 1961-62.

Mr. Cole will enter the Florida State university graduate school for advanced study and research in meteorology leading to a Ph.D. degree.

A graduate of SJS in June 1956, Mr. Cole was appointed to the physical science faculty that fall while working for his M.A. He received his masters in August 1957 and has since done some graduate work at Stanford.

'Camp Counselor Interviews Today

Interviews for students who signed up as Spartacamp counselors will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. today in Adm218, Earle Truax, chairman of the 1961 Spartacamp committee announced.

Counselor candidates were reminded to appear at the time they were assigned in the signups of Dec. 7 through 14.

The five-minute interviews will be conducted by members of the Spartacamp committee and faculty advisers.

'California Has Done Nothing'

Social Science Head Tells Why State Won't Have Civil War Test

By PETE KUEHL

"California has done nothing," a disconsolate and sometimes bitter Dr. Leo Kibby told the Spartan Daily yesterday.

"Forty three states began commemorating the start of the Civil War yesterday," the social science area head remarked. "California is not among them."

Dr. Kibby is one of a dozen Californians on a national committee set up in 1957. Numbering about 300, the group was supposed to arrange statewide commemorative activities for all of 1961, the Civil War centennial year. Its chairman is Ulysses S. Grant III, a retired major general, grandson of the Yankee general, and former U.S. president.

"I corresponded with Governor Knight and Governor Brown," Dr. Kibby explained, "hoping to get them to encourage approval by the legislatures."

BILL FAILED

But in 1959 a bill directing California participation in the national commemoration failed.

"It passed the house, but died in the senate committee," the professor said. "A negro assemblyman from Los Angeles — the bill's sponsor — told me they (the legislators) were afraid it would cost money."

"We never asked for money. We think we could have gotten voluntary contributions," Dr. Kibby said somewhat bitterly.

The professor gave the impression that neither former governor Goodwin Knight nor Gov. Edmund Brown were overly enthusiastic.

Dr. Kibby said that ex-governor Knight, now a radio-TV commentator in Los Angeles, replied that he would "turn the letter over to proper authorities."

Governor Brown, according to Dr. Kibby, wrote that he would "give the matter consideration" and keep the SJS professor informed.

SECOND LETTER

Six months later, Dr. Kibby said, he wrote a second letter to the state executive, but has received no reply.

What can California do to commemorate the nation's second most lethal war?

"Tell citizens of California's contribution to the union cause," Dr. Kibby says.

"Reemphasize Civil War history in schools."

"Support scholarships for students studying and writing about various aspects of the conflict."

"Contact descendants of Civil War veterans for possible diaries and letters dealing with the period."

On a more colorful and festive level, Kibby suggested California might have partially reenacted "California Column" march which took about 2000 state volunteers into Arizona and New Mexico territory to turn back a small Rebel force trying to forge a route to the Pacific coast.

GOLD AND TRADE

The South wanted California for two reasons: gold and trade to the orient.

The "Column" drove the southern force back to Texas, Dr. Kibby explained, as he traced its historic route from Tucson to Santa Fe and Albuquerque on a large wall map.

"Many of its California campsites could be re-marked and publicized," he opined.

Dedication Set For Kid's Books

Delta Phi Upsilon, national honorary fraternity for childhood education majors, will dedicate a collection of children's books from foreign lands at 3 p.m. Jan. 15, in the San Jose State Library.

The collection will be named for Miss Mabel G. Crumby and Miss Emily DeVore, associate professors of education, emeritus.

The dedicatory exercises will be held in the education reading room of the Library following a tea beginning at 2 p.m.

BOOKPLATES

Framed bookplates, replicas of the ones to be used in all of the books in the collection, will be presented to Miss Crumby and Miss DeVore in recognition of their influence in stimulating the interest of prospective teachers in children's literature.

Participating in the program will be members of the active and alumnae chapters of Delta Phi Upsilon; Miss Helen C. Bullock, education librarian; and Miss Joyce Backus, college librarian.

Donors of the collection include active and graduate members of Delta Phi Upsilon; Dr. Esther M. Shepard, professor of English, emeritus; Miss Jeanette Vanderploeg, associate professor of librarianship, emeritus, and others.

ORIGIN

The collection had its origin in 1957 when Miss Frances Gulland, assistant professor of education and adviser to the Delta Phi Upsilon chapter, discovered that the college library had very few children's books in foreign languages. She suggested to Dr. William G. Sweeney, dean of the Education Division, that a collection of such books be started and that it be dedicated to Miss Crumby and Miss DeVore.

College Film Slated Today

A color-sound film documenting the role of a college union in the life and affairs of a college campus will be shown this afternoon at 3:30 in TH55, Dr. Dwight Bente, chairman of the student union building committee, announced.

Entitled "Living Room of the University," the film depicts, Dr. Bente stated, the "multiple of activities carried on in the University of Wisconsin union building."

Shown under the auspices of the student union committee, the film is open to anyone interested, he stated.

Movie Explores Canadian Wilds

A reindeer roundup, a caribou stampede and the capturing of a rare white whale are featured in "Canada Sea to Sea," tonight in the third Audubon Screen series at 8 p.m. in Morris Dailey auditorium, said Dr. Arnold G. Applegarth, professor of zoology.

The color film which reveals the great wealth of Canada's wilderness will be narrated by its creator, Bert Harwell. Mr. Harwell has produced films throughout the world for the National Audubon Society and Walt Disney's nature series. Before joining the society he was head park naturalist for Yosemite National Park.

Tickets will be available at the door. Student tickets are 50 cents, general admission 90 cents and children under 12 25 cents.

Local Group Establishing Dixon Fund

A scholarship fund for St. John Dixon, who was expelled from a southern university for his "sit-in" activities and who was recently accepted for admission to SJS for the spring semester is being established by a committee composed of various local citizens.

The Rev. C. W. Washington, of the Anioch Baptist church is chairman of the group which is attempting to raise $800 or $900 to pay for Dixon's first semester at SJS. Treasurer of the committee is George C. Hoyt, assistant professor of business and economics at SJS.

Rev. George L. Collins, Baptist campus pastor, and another member of the committee, stated that approximately $200 has been raised so far.

He explained that contributions are being requested from community churches, businesses, labor groups, and interested individuals. As an example of the latter, The Rev. Collins cited a letter from one contributor who stated that his grandfather was a leader in the "underground railroad" of pre-Civil War days and consequently he (the contributor) was interested in the Dixon case.

The committee has taken the name of "Southern Students Scholarship Committee" and, according to The Rev. Collins, may continue to seek aid for other southern students at SJS after Dixon's scholarship has been raised.

Rev. Collins explained that it was the committee's view that since this will be Dixon's first semester at a new school, there may be "problems of adjustment" and that it would be preferable if Dixon did not have to seek outside work.

Editorial

A Paradox?

In an introductory speech to the state legislature last week, Gov. Edmund G. Brown outlined his proposals for a new state educational program.

Governor Brown is on record as saying: "The improvement of education is the number one goal of my administration." He has reiterated several times, in contrast, that he would not recommend a pay raise for state employees.

Last month when the governor addressed the California School Board assn. on his education program, he emphasized the teaching of foreign languages, basic science, mathematics and a wider use of classroom television.

On just these few points—and there are many more—the governor speaks of hiring more teachers, building new facilities and teaching more students. The governor also is proud—and justifiably so—that he headed the master plan for higher education which now is in effect.

Governor Brown's program for education appears to be sound and progressive. However, it does seem paradoxical.

Teachers are the backbone of education and they do not come cheaply. If education is to move forward in other areas, we must as well advance in the quality as well as quantity of teachers by increasing their financial reward.

A-Blast Raises Question

Hidden in the back pages of newspapers Friday was the story of the first fatal reactor blast in the history of America's atomic program.

Whether or not the United States agrees or disagrees with international atomic disarmament, it is the right of the people to know that atomic accidents can and do happen in this country.

A mysterious blast Tuesday at the National Reactor Testing station of the atomic energy commission 40 miles west of Idaho Falls, Idaho, killed three servicemen whose bodies are still dangerously radioactive.

Automatically one has to ask this question . . . With the country boasting 50,000 atomic bombs in stockpile, what guarantee do we have that more far-reaching nuclear "accidents" won't happen again, threatening the safety of many more than the three who were killed?

Yes, the people should know. Because if the people understand that nuclear accidents can happen, their influence might lead to a new attitude on atomic disarmament or at least a new look at existing safety measures.

It Can't Happen Here

If there is one thing I can't stand it's people—especially if they write for a newspaper—who make predictions at the start of a new year. So here goes:

1. THE GIANTS WILL WIN THE PENNANT! The reason is simply a matter of analyzing the pattern. The Dodgers finished poorly (7th) in 1958 after being tabbed to win. Since they flopped in 1958, no one picked them to win in 1959—which is exactly what they did.

The Pirates finished a poor fourth in 1959 after being highly rated off their 1958 second place finish. Since they flopped in 1959, no one picked them to win in 1960—which is exactly what they did.

Ergo: the Giants finished a dismal fifth in 1960 after being boomed for the pennant due to their close second place position in 1959. Since they flopped in 1960, no one will pick them to win in 1961—which is exactly what they will do.

2. CENTENNIAL HALL WILL BURN DOWN! Someone will discard a lighted cigarette in a corridor, and all but the faculty offices will go up in smoke.

3. THE LIBRARY ADDITION WILL BE TORN DOWN AND BEGUN AGAIN! The reason here is obvious. Anyone walking by can see the bookshelves will not fit.

4. JUNE ALLYSON WILL SUE DEBBIE REYNOLDS! For "Alienating her husband's affections." Debbie's so vindictive.

5. CALIFORNIA WILL CHANGE ITS NAME! Namely, from California to FRIOfornia. That is, if the cold wave continues.

6. SOMEONE IN THE JOURNALISM AND ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT WILL SAY "PUBLIC RELATIONS" INSTEAD OF "P.R."

7. VANCE BARNES WILL BE CALLED FOR GOAL TENDING! However, the referee (who will not know that Barnes high-jumps 6-10) will reverse the call after noticing basketballer Barnes is only 5-11.

8. SAN JOSE WILL BE ANNEXED BY SARATOGA! Which in turn will be incorporated by Cupertino.

9. I WILL NOT QUIT SMOKING!

Speech, Drama To Give Rollicking Comedy

By ED RAPOPORT

Carlo Goldoni's rollicking comedy about the wiles of a winsome woman, "Mistress of the Inn," will be the next presentation of the SJS Speech and Drama department.

The play will run Friday and Saturday and Jan. 18 through 21 at 8:15 p.m. in the Studio Theater, SD103. Directing the broad comedy is Dr. Jack H. Neeson, assistant professor of drama.

Cheryl Del Biaggio will star as the winsome woman, Mirandolina. Vying for her affections will be Ben Shelton as the Marquis of Forlipopoli, Gary Hammer as the Count of Albafiorita, Bruce Lovelady as the Cavalier of Ripafretta and Douglas Johnston as Fabrizio, the inn servant.

MISTRESS BORED

Mirandolina, mistress of the inn, quickly tires of the bore-some wooing from the poor but proud marquis and the braggart and rich count. She shifts her interests instead to the cavalier, an ardent woman hater, whom she tries to win to her side.

Two actresses dressed as ladies are mistaken as such when they visit the inn, and they also are admired by the count and the marquis. The actresses are played by Sandra Ward as Ortensia and Bonda Lewis as Dejanera.

Portraying Pietro, servant to the cavalier, will be Gerald Proost.

SEX IN FLORENCE

The play, set in an inn near Florence in the year 1753, is characteristic of the commedia dell'arte dramatic form, which ran from mid 16th Century through the 18th.

The form was in essence improvised comedy built around a bare outline or scenario. Italian playwright Goldoni used a polished form when he wrote "Mistress of the Inn." The present form of the 18th Century play is an English adaptation by contemporary Helen Lohmann.

Meeting Gets By Without Coverage

EDITOR—On Thursday, December 8, 1960, an unnewsworthy meeting was held at Tiny's Restaurant in San Jose. Present at this meeting were the deans of three minor engineering schools: Stanford University, University of Santa Clara and San Jose State College.

The speaker at this meeting was Dr. Robert Pardin, an obscure man who aside from his office of Dean of the Engineering School at the University of Santa Clara, is chairman of the Pacific Southwest area of the American Society for Engineering Education and national chairman of education for the American Institute of Industrial Engineers.

The topic of discussion at this meeting concerned such trivia as engineering education and the standardization of accreditation requirements for engineering schools across the nation. This, of course, is of interest to practically no one, except, perhaps, all those at San Jose State who believe that the further accreditation of the engineering curricula would be an asset to our graduates and to our standing in the engineering community.

May I be the first to congratulate you for your refusal to mention this meeting in the Daily even though you were notified of it beforehand. After all, we need that news space to cover such shockers as "Should There be a Chain Across the Cafeteria" and "Who is the Ugliest Man on Campus." I hope that you will have the courage to continue in the future, as you have in the past, to screen unworthy news and maintain this high degree of quality in your reporting. Keep up the good work!

Sales and Sales Management Training Program

This Program is designed to develop young, inexperienced men for careers in life insurance sales and sales management. It provides an initial training period of 3 months (including 3 weeks at a Home Office School) before the men move into full sales work.

Those trainees who are interested in and who are found qualified for management responsibility are assured of ample opportunity to move on to such work in either our field offices or in the Home Office after an initial period in sales.

The Connecticut Mutual is a 114-year-old company with 520,000 policyholder-members and over four billion dollars of life insurance in force. Aggressive expansion plans provide unusual opportunities for the limited number of men accepted each year.

Intramural Gridders End Play Thursday

Make-up games have brought about a number of changes in the remainder of the schedule for the Independent division of the Intramural football league.

Nine games are still on tap for the independents, though action in the fraternity division was wrapped up prior to the holidays.

Three games are set for today, according to assistant intramural director Don Hogan.

At Columbus park The Place tackles Moulder Hall on field No. 1, while Wilson's clashes with Sevens on field No. 2.

The third game today finds Crockett battling the Surfriders at William st. park. All games get under way at 3:30 p.m. with a 3:45 forfeit time.

Wednesday four games are on tap.

CAHPER, fighting to stay in the race for the title, meets Markham Hall at Columbus park, field 2, while Crockett and Wilson's tangle on field 1.

If CAHPER is to stay in the race, it will have to have help from AID. The AIDs can wrap up the crown with a win over Newman at William st. park.

At Willow st. park the Surfriders clash with The Place.

The season concludes Thursday with a pair of games at Columbus park. Crockett meets Howell's and Newman tries Moulder Hall on fields 1 and 2, respectively.

IFC Volleyballers Vie in Tournament

DU will be out to defend its IFC volleyball championship this weekend in the annual Fraternity Volleyball Tournament.

First round games will be held Friday in the women's gym beginning at 3:30 p.m. Finals are slated in the men's gym Saturday with games beginning promptly at 10 a.m.

"Two Col.—10 pt."

By Gary Palmer, Asst. Sports Editor

APPARENTLY THE OLD adage, "the best offense is a good defense" does not apply to basketball. West Coast hoop coaches might disagree, but statistics released last week by the NCAA showed the top five offensive teams to be averaging better than 86 points a game.

All five teams are harbored in the East or Midwest. If you're a native Californian, chances are you don't know what the figure 86 looks like on the scoreboard—not if you follow the Bay Area teams. A look at the defensive side of the ledger reveals four of the top five represent the West Coast. They were all allowing less than 52 points a game by their opponents, including San Jose, which, going into the Santa Clara game, was yielding a stingy 49.3.

A closer scrutiny of the statistics showed the top five offensive teams boasted a composite won-loss mark of 43-4. There's no two ways about it, this is impressive.

The top five defensive teams in the country were not even winning two-thirds of their encounters. They showed a 37-20 record.

Time and again, however, the West Coast has shown it can hold down the high scoring quintets across the nation, but seldom do they beat them.

Take a look at another of the NCAA statistics. Free throw percentages. The top five men at the foul line are either Easterners or Texans, and the worst mark among the five is a .900 percentage.

The composite mark shows the quintet has meshed 168 of 182 gratis tosses. That's what you call being thankful. That also is where ball games are won and lost.

We're not advocating the West Coast give up its brand of basketball for the style that has produced the 43-4 mark. On the contrary, in our estimation it is the only kind. But we would like to see a few West Coast cagers among the top men in free throw percentages. This is where we tend to let down.

A good basketball player, regardless whether he's been brought up in the conservative west or the racehorse east, must take advantage of the opportunities afforded by the referee's whistle.

San Jose, prior to Saturday's game, had hit on only 163 of 267 charity shots for 61 per cent. Spartan opponents, mostly western fives, have not done much better with their 63 per cent.

As a rule, 70 per cent is average at the foul line, and 75 per cent is definitely not too much to expect.

At any rate, 61 per cent is far from good. It has cost San Jose State at least two games.

A pressing defense is going to bring about more than the usual number of fouls. Since this is our type game and most of our opponents type game, this is where work is needed.

Granted, our 31 per cent from the floor has not helped matters, but the direct blame lies at the free throw line. Here's hoping things improve.

Broncos Notch 45-31 Triumph Over Spartans in WCAC Tilt

By GARY PALMER

Santa Clara, scared momentarily by a second half San Jose surge, regained its poise in the final seven minutes of play to register a 45-31 triumph in WCAC basketball action at the San Jose Civic Auditorium Saturday night.

An overflow crowd jammed the arena long before game time to watch the neighboring quintets, rated as the nation's top two defensive teams, duel for the second time this season.

The Spartans, beaten earlier by the Broncos in the Christmas tournament, were denied once again by the towering Santa Clarans with their pressing defense.

Coach Bob Feerick's cagers jumped into the lead at the outset and Stu Inman's game San Jose team never caught up.

Little Pete Lillevand and Barry Christina scored nine of the Broncos' first 11 points, while the Santa Clara defense kept the Spartans at long range.

Unable to hit from the outside and unable to move the ball inside, San Jose found itself falling further behind. The Spartans managed only five field goals in the first half and left the court at intermission, trailing 25-13.

Christina broke the scoring ice in the second half with a free throw to put the Broncos in front 26-13, but suddenly the tide of battle turned.

Forward Bill Robertson, center Joe Braun, forward Denny Bates and guard Gary Ryan meshed consecutive buckets and the Spartans were back in the thick of things, 26-21.

The second half was more

Monday, January 9, 1961

SPARTAN DAILY—3

than 13 minutes old before Denny McGrath finally got the Broncos on the board with a two-pointer in the second half.

It proved to be the one that broke the Spartans' backs, however, as the jittery Santa Clarans finally began to find the range.

San Jose cooled off at the same time the Broncos got their shooting eyes back, and the Spartans found themselves falling steadily behind in the waning moments.

While the lanky Broncos kept the Spartans at bay and controlled the backboards, it was Lillevand, the 5-10 guard that did the offensive damage. He topped all scorers with 12 points, six of them from the free throw line.

Gene Shields notched 10 from his center spot for the Broncos, while Joe Braun, from his pivot post also tallied 10 to pace San Jose.

While there was little difference in shooting percentages from the floor, the Broncos took advantage of twice as many free throws to outscore the Spartans in that category, 15-7. San Jose hit 12 out of 38 field goal attempts while Santa Clara meshed 15 of 44.

In the preliminary game the San Jose yearlings, with Harry Edwards and Mel Simpson showing the way, surprised the Santa Clara frosh, 59-47.

High scorer for the frosh in '59 he is now doing a fine job on the varsity squad. Good luck Bill.

New Gym Lighting Welcomes SJS Cage Mentors Home

There's more than one way to make a basketball coach happy. He'd undoubtedly be pleased with an unbeatable team or a limitless supply of lucrative basketball scholarships.

But these dreams are pretty hard to make come true. Now, if one were to shed a little light on the subject, he just might find a winner.

And so it came to pass that SJS basketball coaches Stu Inman and Danny Glines returned to Spartan Gym at the turn of the new year and found 40 fluorescent lights suspended over their home hardwoods.

One might call it a minor Christmas miracle. During the Christmas recess, the SJS buildings and grounds department installed the new lights, which at first glance seem like they should be hanging in an office building than in a gymnasium.

Each of the 40 units sheds 100 foot-candles worth of light, and when working in unison they make Spartan Gym one of the best-lighted gyms in the country.

The dull lighting of the past—15 to 17 foot-candles worth—is but a memory, and Spartan fans attending the next home game can easily see why for themselves.

Cost of the new lights was in the neighborhood of $4500. Their effectiveness is also measured by noting that most of the new college gymnasiums being built today have but between 50-60 foot-candles of lighting.

"The new lights certainly make for a cheerier gym," Inman said. "They throw no shadows, nor do they cast any reflections," he added.

Matmen, Gymnasts Return to Action

Idle since before the holidays, San Jose State wrestlers and gymnasts return to action this week.

Coach Hugh Mumby's grapplers make their first start since a pair of tournaments in early December. The matmen tackle tough Chico State in their first dual meet on the Spartan mats at 4 p.m. tomorrow; follow up against Cal here Friday evening at 7:30, and host the AAU Novice Freestyle tourney at noon Saturday.

Roy Davis' gymnasts are entered in the Central YMCA Novice meet in San Francisco at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

FDR Speech Album Given To Library

A record album of former Pres. Franklin D. Roosevelt's major speeches between 1933 and 1945 has been presented to the SJS Library Humanities department by the Communications Workers of America, Local 9423, a San Jose labor union.

Bernard G. Tandeci, local president, said the six long-playing records contain about 24 of Roosevelt's outstanding speeches during the period.

The album was purchased by the local union in a drive by labor to raise funds for a Washington memorial to the late president.

Deadline Tomorrow For Ski Trip Signup

Signup deadline for the Heavenly Valley ski trip Jan. 13 through 15 is tomorrow, announced Nancy Steger, club secretary.

All students are invited to attend.

Hawaiian Group To View Movie

An armchair flight to an island paradise will be featured at tomorrow's Hawaiian club meeting in C208 at 7:30 p.m. The color and sound commercial travelogue will be followed by a short talk by Elizabeth Stewart, assistant professor of English, on a summer session on Maui.

The club's upcoming luau will be discussed also, says publicity chairman Clara Chan.

Students going on the summer trip will jet to Paia, Maui, Hawaii, June 18 and attend the Maunaloa Institute of Fine Arts which will be newly-opened at that time.

An included tour pauses at other islands, features native feasts and celebrations as well as room and meals. This lump sum also pays for motor trips, beach parties, dances parties, theaters, and sightseeing, according to Mrs. Stewart, appointed director of the new school.

Seniors To Meet On Events Slate

A ball, a contest and a banquet are among the events slated for discussion tomorrow when the senior class meets at 3:30 p.m. in S112.

Discussion of the merger of the senior-junior ball is scheduled, according to Roger Scaife, president.

Also, the Joe College-Betty Coed contest set Jan. 19-20 will be discussed, and the senior banquet will be planned.

State Fought In Civil War

sided with the Union, many hotbeds of southern sympathy existed; among them were San Bernardino and Yuba City.

Dr. Kibby outlined what the rest of the nation planned during the commemorative festivities.

President Eisenhower addressed a national radio-TV audience yesterday to open the centennial.

The Virginia legislature voted $200,000 for numerous activities. One of the state's most important observances took place yesterday at the tomb of Robert E. Lee's at Lexington. A battalion from West Point participated.

South Carolina reenacted the firing on the "Star of the North," a Union ship which attempted to supply Fort Sumpter three months before the fighting began. A large program was held at the tomb of General Grant in New York City.

But in California: "While it is not too late to get the ball rolling," Dr. Kibby says, "any effort would be a most retarded one."

If "Traveler" rides through the sky, a proud Lee mounted on his back; and if a small, scowling man with a bottle to his lips chases him on a worn, sorry nag—few in the Golden State will notice.

The most obvious "Ghost Riders" will gallop from out of a juke box in a road house tavern.

Flying 20 Lowers Membership Fees

A membership rate slash was announced today by Flying 20, campus aviation club. Its annual fee of $75 has been cut to $25 and the doors are open to 25 new members, either student pilots or privates, according to Sal Rositano, club president.

Those expressing a desire to fly should contact Rositano, CYpress 5-6149, evenings or apply in the Flying 20 office, open daily in College Union, 315 S. Ninth st.

A trio of aircraft was recently completed with the addition of a four-place Stinson "station wagon." The club has been using both a two-place Aeronca "Champ" and a Cessna 240 for some time.

Committee Sets Sights On 'International House'

A state-sponsored foreign student haven is the aim of a 70-member committee recently set up by Superior court Judge Robert F. Peckham. The projected "international house" would serve as headquarters for assorted clubs and organizations and backdrop for entertaining temporary foreign visitors.

Need for a permanent meeting place was supported by Mrs. Marion Richards, foreign student adviser here. She says club sponsored "one-shot" receptions fail to give foreign students an insight into Americans and how they live.

COMMITTEE WORKING
A subcommittee already has been formed by Judge Peckham to draw up by-laws and technical details of the program. The committee proper met recently at the University club Hotel Ste. Claire to discuss it.

Only limited funds are on tap for the guidance of foreigners, according to Mrs. Richards, but "foreign students on return to their homelands can be ambassadors of good will for the United States if their experience here has been happy," she noted.

SPRING PROGRAM SET
Serving on the "international house for SJS" committee are Jeptha Wade, president of World Affairs council, Gerald Caldwell, Wade Hoover and Joan Symon.
